

ABSTRACT
PROFILE MANAGEMENT SYSTEM

A profile management system, for use with information processing applications 5 which retrieve information on behalf of a user. The system comprises a profile generator which generates default user profiles. The profile generator can identify user-specific information from, for instance, an organisation chart such that new members of an organisation are automatically assigned a profile. This enables information processing 10 applications to provide new members with information that is relevant to their role within an organisation.
